INTO NEW FIELDS

EARLY MORNING PAST MAIL SERV-ICE EXTENDED.

HUTCHINSON

CLOSE CONNECTION MADE THERE WITH THE SANTA FE.

Letters Mailed at Midnight in Kansa City to Be Delivered Along the Line of the Hutchinson & Southern the Next Morning.

Beginning with this morning, the Hutch inson & Southern road will make close con nection with the fast mail leaving here at 2:30 a, m .over the Santa Fe for the West. This mail reaches Hutchinson at 8:20 a. m. hands of business men hundreds of miles west by business hours next day. This service is continually being perfected by country tributary to the commercial interests of Kansas City.

The Hutchinson & Southern connection is a most valuable one in the line of perfect- day is for continued fair and warm. ing service. It places Kansas City business Ing service. It places Kansas City business all along that line from Hutchinson to Blackwell twenty-four hours earlier than the business mail from any other commercial center. The people living along the line have been asking for a long time that the schedule be so changed as to meet best their business requirements. The management of the Hutchinson line has at last been able to comply with the reat last been able to comply with the request thus made,

This is one more facility added to the business interests of Kansas City. The real value of the improved mail service being provided for Kansas City would be fully realized if a better local postoffice service were at hand. With the oldtime arrangement of incompetency only part of an opportunity is being improved. The business section of Kansas City gets three deliveries per day, while part of the residence district two and part one. A few buildings under the old arrange-ment get five deliveries per day. The business sections of other cities get five de-liveries per day, and there is no real good reason why Kansas City should not be given a metropolitan service.

Postmaster Scott promises to rescue business interests from the hobe service that has infested the city. This done, and continued improvement of fast mails, Kansas City will be a good place to do business

PROTEST BY BRICK MEN.

They Object to Giving a Ten Year Maintenance Guarantee on Paving Contracts.

Representatives of brick paving compa nies appeared before the board of public works yesterday and protested against the order of the board insisting upon a ten years' maintenance guarantee. They claimed that they could not give such a guarantee, and that under the charter they could not be compelled to give longer than five years' guarantee. The matter was re-ferred to the city counselor for his opin-ion on the legal phases of the question.

RESULT OF A DECISION BY THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Letting Contracts at Public Bidding Reduces Cost of Granitold Walks 15 to 20 Per Cent and Insures Uniformity.

It is rarely that a technical decision of high court of law works out to the actual benefit of the city. But the decision of the court of appeals declaring that all property in a certain block, section or district must bear its share of the cost of a cer-tain improvement, bids fair to redound to benefit of all property owners. The practical effect of this decision, which was rendered in a sidewalk case, was to pro-hibit property owners from making private contracts with contractors, and to require all sidewalks to be built by public cor tract, as street improvements, etc., are constructed. The theory of the decision was that it was no more reasonable to have patchwork block of sidewaiks, part of one material and part of another, than to allow the street to be paved by private contract in front of a few pieces of prop-city engineer refused permits for job lot sidewalks, and the result was seen at the last letting of contracts, when $2.000 worth of granitod walks were let out at 15 to 20 per cent less than the usual figures. In addition to the reduced cost of walks, uni-formity is insured under the public con-tract system, and streets will not now pre-sent a crazy-cullt annearance, a handsome tract system, and streets will not now pre-sent a crazy-quilt appearance, a handsome walk being laid in front of one or two lots and old walks on the rest of the street. Great pressure is being brought to bear by contractors on the council to return to the old method by some sort of compro-mise, which will not conflict with the court of appeals' decision, and yet permit prop-erty owners to build walks at private con-tract. It has been suggested that private contracts may be made, but that when any public contract is let on a certain street, all the property in the block be taxed for the walk. This will evade the decision, and will permit property owners who are anxwill permit property owners who are anx-ious to get walks down to do so without the red tape of official methods. What the property owners gained in time they would lose in an added assessment.

The contractors are loath to give up a good thing, but the city officials who have charge of this line of work are glad of an excuse for insuring uniformity and a reduction in prices at the same time. They are cordially of the opinion of the court of appeals, that sidewalks are public in their nature and should be laid as street pavement, sewers, etc., are constructed.

City Engineer Wise yesterday gave $3.69 worth of granitoid walk construction to the Kansas City Stone Sidewalk Company, which was tied with the Kansas City Cement Sidewalk Company at 15½ cents per square foot. The public improvements committee on Thursday instructed the engineer to divide the contracts equally between the two companies, but the Kansas City Cement Sidewalk Company waived its rights, as the price was too low to make the contracts desirable, according to the company's claim. It is understood, however, that the bids were made to protect certain private contracts at higher figures, but much of the work will have to be done at the price bid. property owners gained in time they would lose in an added assessment.

REBUKE TO DOGCATCHERS.

Mayor Jones Orders an Investigation of Charges of Needless

Cruelty. Many complaints have been made to the mayor of the needless cruelty practiced by degeatchers in capturing unfortunate dogs which are not licensed. For some unknown reason the deputy dogcatchers seem to have an inherent tendency to cruelty and any person who has seen a helpless dog caught and hauled, howling, into the air at the end of a wire noose, has been filled with indignation at the barbarous spectacle. The city derives a very small net revenue from this system, which is productive of more complaints and hard feeling than any other department of the city government. The deputies get 25 cents each for every dog caught and killed. Instead of taking up only stray dogs in the streets, they frequently invade private yards. A miserable specimen of a cur dog is used as a bait to lure other dogs outside the yards, and more children and women's tears and men's profanity has been caused by this practice than by any other. The spectacle is not an edifying one to children and does much to neutralize the efforts of the Bands of Mercy. It is just as easy to capture the unfortunate brutes humanely, if they must lose their lives because they are friendless or their owners are too poor to pay the license, which is very frequently the case.

The cruelty does not stop with yanking the dogs into the air with a cutting wire noose. They are taken to the stilling pound on the river bank and kept in swellering pens for several days, gasping away their lives these blistering days. Those which survive at the end of a few days are put out of their misery by being suffocated with sulphur fumes.

Some day municipal civilization will reach so high a standard that it will be considered unworthy the dignity and humafity of an enlightened community to torture helpless brutes and slay them for no act which justifies the forfeiture of their lives. with indignation at the barbarous spec tacle. The city derives a very small net complete figures of Superintendent Sloan show that the second annual clean-up cost the city $2.483.17 and that 4.659 loads of refuse of all sorts were collected from the alleys of the city. This makes the cost of each load 61 cents. City officials say that the work could have been done by contract for 30 cents, saving $440 on the clean-up and hundreds of poor men with teams would have been glad of the chance to make four or five loads a day. The idea of the city doing what the individual ought to do seems to have come to stay, but it is probable that steps will be taken to reduce the cost of this idea's "keep." It is probable that this work will be let by contract next year. It is in the long run cheaper for the city to do the work than to pay officials to arrest and inspect and keep hammering away at obstinate individuals. But if this particular form of municipal improvement can be made less expensive and at the same time benefit more deserving citizens, the city officials will see that it is done. ficials say that the work could have been
